PRODUCTS

1- SPICES

* TURMERIC POWDER -

Turmeric powder is a deep, yellow spice known for adding rich color, flavor, and nutrition to food. Turmeric powder is also used in many medicines and healthcare products. It is an anti-inflammatory, antioxidant, antifungal, antibacterial, and antiviral agent. It helps reduce inflammation, fights free-radical damage, improves immunity, relieves joint pains & arthritis, reduces the risk of cancer, protects your heart, keeps your kidney healthy, etc.

* CUMIN POWDER - Cumin powder is renowned for being rich in iron, manganese, and several other vitamins and minerals. Consuming cumin powder can assist in digestion, and it is known to play a role in fighting cancer. The presence of iron in the spice makes it a wonderful addition to food to boost metabolism and energy in the body.

* RED CHILLI POWDER - Red Chilli powder contains a high quantity of potassium, which helps keep the blood vessels relaxed and maintain blood pressure by stimulating the release of vasodilators. This improves blood circulation and keeps the heart healthy. The active component in red chilli powder (capsaicin) has anti-inflammatory properties and can help reduce pain and inflammation. Red chilli powder helps reduce weight and burn extra body fat by increasing the body's metabolism rate.

2- PULSES

* YELLOW LENTILS - Yellow lentils, also known as moong dal, are small, round, and yellow legumes that are high in protein and fiber and have a slightly nutty flavor. They are often used in Indian and Middle Eastern dishes to add color and thicken soups, stews, and purees.

* CHICK PEAS - Chickpeas (Cicer arietinum), also known as garbanzo beans, are a type of legume with a buttery, nutty flavor and creamy texture. They are high in protein, fiber, minerals, and unsaturated fatty acids, and are a staple of many diets. Chickpeas are also a good source of calcium, potassium, phosphorus, magnesium, iron, zinc, and folate.

3 - HONEY -

Honey can make anything sweeter without hampering your blood sugar level. This is the reason behind its demand and use. Along with that, there are several other health benefits that one can receive using honey. We supply honey that is natural and unprocessed. It doesn't contain any harmful product in it which can cause harm to the body. Therefore, people from different sectors approach us for our products.
